MAN STABBED WITH PICK HAS CHANCE TO RECOVER

Joe Varga Taken to Memorial Hospital This Morning.

INQUEST THIS EVENING

Coroner to Investigate Into the Death of Hungarian Who Was Killed.

With a chance for recovery Joe Vargo, the man who was struck in the back with a pick and it was though mortally wounded in a fight among Hungarians miners at Pricedale Saturday night, was rushed to the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela this morning. The pick entered his back between the shoulder blades and it is feared penetrated the right lung. This may cause complications.

As yet it is stated no more arrests have been made in connection with the affair, although the police of Pricedale and Belle Vernon are searching, for the six men at large. John Sohanos and Andrew Ronack are being held. Joe Boldog who was shot in the right leg is getting along well.

If it possible to locate the witnesses Coroner James T. Heffran of this county will hold an inquest at the undertaking rooms of Correll and Crowley this evening to inquire into the death of William Smith who was shot and killed at the same time the other two were injured.

SCHOOL UNNECESSARY FOR THEIR CHILDREN

Local People Haled Into Justice's Court to Answer to Charge.

For not sending their children to school a man by the name of Wachulk and one by the name of Berwin were found guilty yesterday before Justice of the Peace Rice and fined $1.00 and costs each. The former did not send his 12-year-old daughter to school and the later his 13 year old daughter. The prosecutor was Truant Officer Gilbert Uptegraft.

CONTEST COMES TO A CLOSE

Most Popular Persons Determined by Firemen.

THANK THE BUSINESS MEN

The Firemen's popularity voting contest, which has been carried on during the past month, has just been decided, and Miss Elizabeth Pardiny is the winner of the diamond ring for the most popular girl, and Frank Kurpuweit, of No. 3 company the most popular member of the fire department.

The vote in the contest for the girls' prizes ended as follows:

Elizabeth Pardiny	8,473
Romala Anderson	2,856
Dorris McConnell	1,947
Mrytle Majors	614
Florence Conaway	332

Miss Anderson will get a year's course at Douglas Business college, Miss McConnell a season ticket to the Palace Theatre, Miss Majors a season ticket to the Coyle Theatre, and Miss Conaway a season ticket to the Star Theatre.

The contest was held for the purpose of raising funds for the fire department. The prizes were nearly all donated and the firemen wish to thank the business men who gave for the contest, as well as those persons who took part and helped make the affair the success it was.

WASHINGTON WOMAN DIES FROM WOUND

Charge of Murder Entered Against Husband Supposed to Have Shot Her.

Mrs. Mary Neeld, 50 years old, of Washington, who was shot at the home of her brother there last Wednesday, died at the Washington hospital here yesterday. Her husband, Eli Neeld, is in the Washington county jail and a charge of murder has been lodged against him.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED FOR RESURFACING ROAD

Donora Construction Company Gets the Job of Repairing Highway in Fallowfield Township.

The road supervisors of Fallowfield township yesterday awarded the contract for resurfacing 6,000 feet of the Sprowls road leading to Charleroi borough, paving 400 feet, and constructing a concrete beam bridge across Maple Creek, to the Donora Construction company. There were three bidders, the Donora Construction company, Hastings and Piper of Charleroi and Glenn company of Washington.

The 6,000 feet of road is to be macadan ized at a width of 16 feet. The 400 feet of brick road is to be that part immediately connecting with the Charleroi borough line. The bridge is to be a 25 foot iron span with concrete abutments.

The supervisors are Henry Carson, Jehu Cooper and William Jones, and the engineer is Theo. J. Allen of Charleroi.

MURDER IS THE RESULT

Miner Injured at Braznell Mines Dies at Hospital.

WILL HOLD INQUEST TODAY

An inquest is to be held today at Monongahela over the body of Jack Snaroff who was shot in a fracas at the Braznell mines near Bentleyville Sunday night. He died at the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela yesterday after suffering for about 24 hours. George Mangun, a Croatian, who is alleged to have done the shooting, has so far escaped arrest. County Detective McCleary is on the trail of the man who is alleged to have used the gun.

ENGINEER DROWNED

Boatman Falls Into River While Oiling Big Wheel

Harry Chapman of McKeesport, second engineer of the towboat Clipper of the River Coal company, was drowned yesterday at Monongahela, when he fell from the boat. It is supposed the man was oiling the paddle wheel of the boat when he fell into the river. No help was near and he was unable to save himself. The body was recovered a short while later. He leaves a widow and three children.

Grand Opening

On Thursday afternoon and evening, September 15, 1910, the Fall opening of the Spidell Millinery will take place.

As has been the custom of this firm, the very latest and newest creations in Millinery will be displayed. You will be interested in the new shapes and effects that are causing so much excitement and comment in New York and Paris. We extend to the Charleroi public a hearty invitation to our opening. RAILWAYS COMPANY SUED AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

George Matheny Claims Damages for Trespass.

ALL PATIENTS DISCHARGED

Injured Ones Return to Their Various Homes, But Are Not Well.

Arising, it is said, from an accident at Beechwood Park crossing near Speers, when his daughter, Miss Blanche Matheny was injured, George Matheny of McKeesport has entered suit in the Washington county courts against the Pittsburg Railways company, claiming damages in her behalf under the technical head of trespass. No particulars are filed. At the same time Miss Matheny was injured, W. H. Hamilton and son Roy of Roscoe were killed, Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Anna Hamilton, Mary Hamilton and Robert Hamilton were injured.

The affair is well remembered. The Hamiltons and Miss Matheny, their guest, were coming from Roscoe in an auto and at the crossing were run into by a trolley car.

Miss Matheny was discharged from the Monessen-Charleroi hospital about August 18, and Mrs. Hamilton and the other members of the family a day or so later. None are fully recovered, except possibly the younger Hamilton children. Mrs. Hamilton will be compelled to use crutches for some time to come and Miss Ann Hamilton it is feared has entirely lost the sight of one eye. Miss Mathen is in a rather weakened condition.

Raises Big Fruit in New Orchard

V. D. Shannon Gleans Rich Crop From Trees on Walnut Ridge.

V. D. Shannon of Fallowfield township this morning dropped in the Mail office long enough to leave a good sized basket full of fruit of the finest grade, it has been the pleasure of "ye editors" to see for a long time. The fruit consisted of Ohio Nonpareil and Winter apples, and Russet pears. The apples were the size of two or three ordinary ones, and the pears were also large. The flavor corresponded. The fruit was grown on Mr. Shannon's farm on Walnut Ridge and is taken from a young orchard, just coming into bearing.

TO PICNIC WEDNESDAY AT ELDORA

Elaborate Arrangements Being Made for Affair.

GRAND LODGE MEN COMING

The Red Men of the valley will hold a grand field day at Eldora Park on Wednesday and elaborate arrangemens are being made for the affair. A parade, bonfire and a war dance will be among the features. There will be speaking by grand lodge officers, among whom will be William H. Long, great sachem, and Tom K. Donley, great chief of records. Rev. George W. Woodberry of Belle Vernon will also make an address. The Red Men will attend in full uniform. The committee arranging the affair is composed of Adolf Hiersoux, Julius Sanderson, Lyman Clark, John Brawdy and Charles Sanders of Monongahela.

CHANGES ARE MADE AT FIRST NATIONAL

Assistant Bookkeeper Resigns Position to go to School.

Frank Ingold, who has been the assistant bookkeeper at the First National bank for some years, has tendered his resignation to the officials and will leave shortly. His place will be taken by Carroll E. Cummings of Parkersburg, who is now at the bank. Mr. Ingold expects to leave for his home in Barberton, Ohio, for a brief visit and then will take a course at Hiram College. Mr. Cummings has had a year's experience in the Central Bank and Security company at Parkersburg, and is a graduate of West Virginia University.

ATHLETIC TRAINING AT THE TURNER CLUB

Physical Development Taught Members and Others by Competent Instructors.

The Charleroi Gymnastic Society is organized for the purpose of bringing up healthy men and women, strong in body, mind and morals, which is conducive to good citizenship. It has been recognized that without a good physical development we cannot be strong in mind. Our German system of physical training which is now introduced in almost every public school, high school, college and university in America, is recognized the world over as perfect in all its branches and the best in giving children and adults of both sex a proper physical development. The aim of physical trainings is to increase the strength and the power of endurance of the body, that it may become an efficient tool of the intelligence. In general, physical training gives to the boy that beauty which consists of nobler bearing and grace of movement. By means of gymnasties a spiritual freshness, resolution, discretion and courage are aroused and maintained. The pupils become accustomed to strict attention, self-control, instant obedience and cheerful subordination of themselves to the interest of the whole.

Endorsing Democrats

Well authenticated reports are to the effect that the Keystone party of the Twenty-fourth Congressional district will endorse J. Henry Wilson of Beaver county, the Democratic candidate for Congress. That being the case, Mr. Wilson's name will probably appear on the Keystone ticket in the three counties of the district—Washington, Beaver and Lawrence. Up to date the Keystone party has endorsed eight Democratic candidates for Congress in the State, showing that their purpose is to fight the Republican party Nationally, as well as in the State.

While the Democratic party will no doubt weclome this coalition which is designed to draw Republican votes under the guise of reform in State politics, how about the national policies, on which Republicans and Democrats differ radically? As a Democrat Mr. Wilson will oppose the tariff duties that are so essential to the prosperity of Pennsylvania's industries. He will vote against the wool schedules, in the interest of which the wool growers of the Washington county sent a committee to Congress to protest against any reduction. Mr. Wilson as a Democrat will vote to install the passive policy for American industries—that is, letting them develop without any artifical effort or stimulation, in the same manner as a town tries to grow where the people sit back and let things take their course. This is what the Keystone party advocates in opposition to the active policy of promoting big developments as fostered by the Republican party.

It is up to the people of Washington county to judge which they prefer—a continuation of industrial developments as they are, or a relapse that will come when world-wide competition removes the barriers that have developed the resource of this country and made it the most prosperous nation on earth. By its action the Keystone party is showing that it is a party of destruction as well as obstruction.

The Maine Election

Although not altogether unexpected by astute politicians who have kept close tab on the situation, the sweeping Democratic victory in Maine yesterday was a surprise to the rank and file of Republicans who took for granted that the Pine Tree State would be true to her traditions. By their victory yesterday the Democrats elect the Governor and three Congressman, with the fourth in doubt. It is also possible that they may have elected enough Assemblymen and Senators to give them control of the Legislature, in which case they can elect a successor to Sentor Hale and repeal the Prohibitory act, which has long been an issue in the politics of that State.

With a gain of three Congressmen from the rock-ribbbed Republican State of Maine, the claim of the Democrats that they will control the next House of Congress is in a fair way to be realized While no radical changes in legislation could be effected with a Republican Senate and President, the confusion resulting from such a change would be deterimental to business interests. In all probability tariff discussion would be revived, and this would halt developments, drive capital into retirement, and cut down consumption and production, just as it has always done. The Maine election will have the effect at least of causing renewed activity on the part of the Republicans, and the indications are that the result will be much the same as in the Garfield campaign, the last time that Maine elected a Democratic Governor.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

While it might be true that Charleroi is a mighty popular place to hold a celebration, it is also true that Charleroi people are the most willing in the world to help out elsewhere. We are now ready to reciprocate with any of our neighbors

According to a prominent New Yorker any person can become great who has the stuff in him. The trouble is to find the stuff.

Foolish Question

"Our youngest child talks all the time."
"Boy or girl?"
"Didn't I say it talked all the time?"

Theodore Roosevelt said he was glad to be enabled to visit Pittsburg. He said the same thing at Milwaukee and the rest of the places he visited on his late tour.

If it is true that the good all die young, some fellows must be terrible sinners.

An exchange in speaking of Mr. Bryan asks if a man is going to throw away a chance of being President for one to go to the Senate. What chance?

In Charleroi they only look askance at the man who dares try to pull off an original joke. In Pricedale they shoot him on the spot.

Isn't the Monongahela valley getting to be the real wild and wooly place, though?

Over in Belle Vernon an apple tree insists upon bearing fruit two or three times a year. If the trees are going to act like that, what's the use of having seasons at all?

The perple, some of them, are actually taking the "Sparks" column seriously. Such is a base insult, so there.

The woman who wears hobble skirts might encounter more trouble than she anticipates when she purchases the thing. She might want to leap from a flaming building into her hero's arms, yet be unable to do it gracefully.

It is in this age where physical exercise gives the promation of growth through the stimulation of breathing and of circulation, especially of blood formation which is sadly hindered by the forced durance in school. It is very important in the development of a good bearing and carriage of the body so as to prevent deformities, spinal curature which is common amongst children from faulty sitting, postions which can only be prevented and cured by means of physical exercise.

Junior classes, 14 to 18 years. This is the period in the life of every boy and girl where great care should be taken in attaining and developing the mind and body. It is the period of developing above all, a strong heart and lungs, also the trainng for dexterity and pleasure in active sport.

Ladies' class, 15 years and over. We believe that the true interest of the family and the home are better subserved by a participation of the weaker sex in these exercises which are so beneficial to the stronger. Women need the benefit derived from rational exercises as well as men to a certain extent Physical training has become a necessity to them. The physical exercises for the weaker sex are somewhat different from those of the stronger, more care being give to develop grace, beauty, correct carriage of the body and agility than to muscular strength.

Active class, men 18 to 30 years. It is in this class where all previous training finds its crowning glory and [illegible] the system demonstrates what really has been accomplished by it. Great stress is laid upon exercises of skill, quickness and tasks for endurance.

Business men's class—30 to 40 years and over. In this period of life a little more care is taken to avoid any [illegible] strain not to overtax the breathing power of the individual, an error so common and very harmful, especially in childhood, where athletics are indulged in. The adopted exercises given to persons of this age, are to maintain strength and health of the internal organs and serving at the same time to consume the surplus fat.

Class Sessions 1910—1911 The gymnasium is large and well equipped and the classes are in charge of Ernest T. Schliep a graduate of the N. A. G. U. Normal college at Indianapolis, Ind., class '09. Mr. Schliep is an expert gymnast and athlete of wide experience. The physical exercises given are to physiological and anatomical value and therefore the classes are divided according to age and sex as follows:

Boys class, 6 to 14—Wednesday, 4 to 5 p. m. Saturday, 9 to 10:30 a. m.

Girls class, 6 to 14—Wednesday, 5 to 6 p. m. Saturday, 10:30 to 12 a. m.

Ladies class, 15 years and over—Wednesday, 7 to 8:30 p. m.

Mens class, Actives—Wednesday, 8:30 to 10 p. m.

The instruction of the gymnasium classes began Wednesday, September 7, 1910. You are cordially invited to "drop in" any afternoon or evening during class hour and see how the classes are conducted. The class work consists of marching tactics, calisthenics without and with hand apparatus, gymnastic apparatus, work on flying rings, vaulting back, vaulting horse, horizontal bar, parallel bar and class games.

The instructions are given in English and German language.

The Charleroi Gymnastic Society is not organized only for the benefit of the members and their children to get a thorough physical development, but also for the benefit of every child and adult in the community being a non-member of the society for the sake of his health and physical weltare. Our gymnasium is open to any one who may be interested in physical training, and we would be pleased to have you or your children to join our gymnasium classes. Tuition for gymnasium school: Non-members—Child or adult 25 cents per month. Members of the society are free.

Frog Farming In France.

Among the advantages of frog farming in France is the fact that it enables persons of limited means to utilize marshes and ponds which are too shallow and warm for fish culture and practically useless for any other purpose and produce on a comparatively small area a large amount of valuable food material for which there is always an eager market.

Where Women May Not Pray.

In some parts of the world the women are not even allowed to pray. Certain Hindoo congregations deny their women this privilege, and among the Ainus women can pray only in very rare cases as the deputies of their husbands. The natives of Madagascar, however, stretch a point and permit their women to intercede with the powers of evil, but prayer to their supreme being is strictly a masculine prerogative.

TRICKY ART DEALERS.

Astute Parisian Scheme For Booming a "New Master."

For the booming of a new artist an astute dealer is necessary. He catches his artist as young as possible, preferably as an exhibitor of crazy canvases at the autumn salon of the independents' exhibition, and commissions him to paint 100 pictures a year.

One by one, occasionally in twos and threes, at judicious intervals the dealer sends the pictures to the Hotel Drouot for sale by public auction There he has confederates, who raise the price at each sale, and he buys them in himself.

After a few months the young artist's canvases have a certain market value, and the next step is taken to turn their painter into a modern master. The critics are attacked. One of them is asked to look at some daub, and when he cries out with horror the dealer says:

"What? You don't like it? Take it home with you as a favor to me, live with it six months and then"—

In due course an art amateur calls upon the critic and cannot contain his admiration for the new artist's picture.

"What a masterpiece! The most modern thing in art I have seen for a long time!" he exclaims.

Doubt begins to invade the critic's mind, and when one or two more enthusiastic amateurs have visited him he is worked up to writing a column of panegyric on the new master. The amateurs are, of course, sent by the dealer.

One or two articles and the boom is in full swing. Wealthy and simple minded collectors, remembering how other painters have been decried in their early days and how their works later have commanded fancy prices, rush in.

The new master makes about 10 per cent of the profit and the dealer the other 90 per cent. The new master is at the mercy of the dealer. If he grumbles the dealer floods the auction rooms with a hundred or so of his masterpieces and orders his agents not to bid, the result being that the canvases sell at rubbish prices, and the boom is burst.—Gil Blas.

LONDON THEATERS.

They Charge From a Penny to Sixpence For a Bill of the Play.

At the London theaters when the young woman shows you to a seat she asks if you wish a program. If you do you pay sixpence in the orchestra or dress circle for a program handsomely printed on fine paper. The price ranges down through "thrippence" and "tuppence" as the galleries ascend to a penny in the cockloft. The quality of paper and the general artistic merit of the program decline with the price, but exactly the same information is conveyed for a penny as for sixpence. The fastidious theater goer might prefer to pay a dime for a neat and simple program rather than to have a bulky bunch of advertisements gratis, as in New York, but these London programs, although not so thick as those of New York, are not devoid of advertisements. This gives the purchaser the feeling that he is being worked at both ends. A lady reminds me, however, that a program in a New York theater costs her 10 cents, as the smeary printing rubs off on her white gloves, the cleaning of which costs a dime.

The quality of the performance at the better London theaters certainly averages no higher than that at similar theaters in New York. The music halls are the resort of the great middle class. These are great auditoriums with tier on tier of galleries, the seating capacity ranging perhaps from 3,000 to 5,000.—London Letter in New York Sun.

The Roman Tribune.

The tribunes in ancient Rome represented the people in much the same way that the house of commons does in England and the house of representatives in this country. For a long time the patricians or aristocrats of Rome had everything their own way. But when the plebeians (or, as we would say, the "plain people") got their tribune the reckless tyranny of the patricians ceased. The tribune had great power. He could veto almost any act and nullify almost any law passed by the Romans Liberty among the Romans dates from the time they first secured their tribunes.—New York American.

Friendship's Tribute.

Gladys—Did you see what the society column of the Daily Bread said about Nin Gillard the other morning? "She moves with ease and grace in our most exclusive circles." Maybelle—Yes, I read it. It's dead certain that the editor who wrote that had never seen her on roller skates.—Chicago Tribune.

Against His Convictions.

"Have some of this Welsh rabbit, Bjonson?" asked Bjones as he stirred the golden concoction in the chafing dish.

"No, thanks, Bjonesey," returned Bjonson, patting his stomach tenderly. "I am unalterably opposed to all corporation taxes."—Harper's Weekly.

Off Again.

"I met your husband in town. He was very much elated."

"The villain! He told me he would never take another drop."—Houston Post.

He who would do a great thing well must first have done the simplest thing perfectly.—Cady.

Played Them Both Ways.

The French comedian Perlet was extraordinarily thin A physician recommended him to try some bath in the Pyrenees, so he betook himself to the mineral springs, where he bathed unremittingly, but all in vain; he did not increase in size. "Patience," urged the doctor. "There is nothing like our baths for making people fat." One day while Perlet was waiting philosophically in his bath for an embonpoint which never came he heard a conversation in the next room, from which his own was divided by only a thin partition and which was occupied by an enormous woman, fat as the Hottentot Venus "Doctor," said she, "I am getting tired of this." "Why?" asked the Aesculapius. "I have been here two months" "Well?" "Well, I am as enormous as I was when I came." "A little patience, madame," urged the doctor. "There is nothing like our baths for making people thin." Perlet, hearing these words, sprang out of his bath, dressed, rushed home to his hotel, ordered his bill and left for Paris by the next train.—Argonaut.

A Simple Life.

"And what," inquired the visitor, who was "being nice" to little Bobbie, "are you going to do when you grow up?"

"Be a business man," responded Robert, "like father. He took me down to his office last week, and I'm going to work like him and have a good time.

"And what are you going to do in business?" pursued the visitor.

"Going to do just like dad," repeated the youngster—"catch the train every morning and when I get to the office light a big cigar and sit down at my desk and say there's so much work to do it's no use beginning till after lunch, and then go out with another big man and eat and eat till I can't eat any more, and then go back to business and ask everybody else why the work ain't done, and then get so mad because nobody does anything that I'll go home early and be so tired I can't do a thing except read the paper and smoke more big cigars and swear."—Pearson's.

Florists' Jargon.

The florists have a trade jargon of their own. When a man who grows flowers for a living rattles off something like "paper whites, valleys and Romans" the confused layman has to stop to think what the jumble of words means. It is only the trade way of saying paper white narcissus, lily of the valley and Roman hyacinth Likewise [illegible] is [illegible] word for chrysanthemum, and [illegible] [illegible] "mum" instead of chrysanthemum. So Bridesmaid roses are "maids," American Beauties are "beauties," Perle du Jardin becomes "perle" and is pronounced pearl, while Souvenir du President Carnot is reduced to its last word, just as those other illustrious French rose names, General Jacqueminot and Marechal Niel, where shortened to "Jack" and "Niel" in the heyday of their glory. — New York Press.

A Locomotive's Breathing.

The "breathing" of a locomotive—that is to say, the number of puffs given during a journey—depends upon the circumstances of its driving wheels and their speed. No matter what the rate of speed may be, for every one round of the driving wheels a locomotive will give four puffs—two out of each cylinder, the cylinders being double. If the average circumference of the driving wheel is twenty feet and the speed per hour fifty miles, a locomotive will give, going at express speed, 850 puffs per minute, 52,800 puffs per hour and 1,055 puffs per mile.—London Standard.

Suitable Game.

Uncle Jack came to visit the family just after Johnny had recovered from an attack of the whooping cough.

"How did you amuse yourself while you had it?" he asked.

"Me and another boy who had it played Indians and gave warwhoops," answered the little fellow.—Chicago News.

Original of Falstaff.

Sir John Fastolf was the original of Shakespeare's Falstaff and in his day was a continual butt for the jests of the town and borough of Southwark. Though he had fought at Agincourt, when Jack Cade invaded the borough, he showed great cowardice. When Cade was yet some way off Fastolf had armed and fortified his house and garrisoned it with veterans of the French wars. On the arrival of Cade, however, he withdrew his garrison and fled to the Tower, leaving his neighbors to the mercy of the rebels. Fastolf's matrimonial adventures seem also to have been another source of unpopularity, for, having married a widow named Scrope, he seized her property and kept his stepson out of his inheritance during his own lifetime.—London News.

"Great Expectations."

Charles Green, one of Dickens' illustrators, had two models, one of whom was a likable fellow, while the other, Gregory by name, was a greedy, self seeking character, always thinking of himself and his perquisites.

When Green was on his deathbed Gregory was very officious, and one day Green, noticing this, said to him:

"Oh, I haven't forgotten you, Gregory; got you down in my will."

At the funeral Gregory invested in a wreath and duly attended to hear the will read.

Green had kept his word, and the model was not forgotten.

"To my dear friend Gregory," ran the document, "I leave, for his kindness to me, an illustrated edition of 'Great Expectations.'"

The Professional View.

An English physician of whom many stories are in circulation may not be as unsympathetic as a recent anecdote seems to make him. He is a specialist on all sorts of mental disturbances and the fits, spasms and convulsions which sometimes accompany them. One of his patients, a most excitable person, if suddenly alarmed or distressed, would fall into a curious comatose state from which she could not be roused until the effect of the shock had passed. The physician had been summoned again and again, but it always happened that he was away from home at the time, and before he arrived on the scene of action the patient had recovered. At last one night he was summoned and arrived at the house while the woman was still unconscious. He hurried upstairs and into the room where she was lying on the couch. He looked at her, and an expression of interest overspread his face.

"Now, this," he said in his most cheerful tone—"this is something like!"

Whistler's Ways.

It was Whistler's custom when drowsy to go deliberately to sleep, no matter where or what the circumstances might be. At one dinner party his gentle snore suddenly aroused his neighbor, who nudged him violently with his elbow. "I say, Whistler," he protested excitedly, "you must not sleep here!"

"Leave me alone!" snapped Whistler. "I've said all I wanted to. I've no interest at all in what you and your friends have to say."

One evening he was my guest at dinner at a hotel. Edwin A. Abbey was also there. Right after dinner Whistler went calmly to sleep. On the way to the theater he enjoyed another nap in the cab, and he slumbered peacefully through the greater part of the play. The next morning he blandly asked me: "What did Abbey have to say last night? Anything worth while?"—Century.

"Charms" In Cornwall.

Cornwall, England, is a county of "charms." "The passing of children through holes in the earth, rocks or trees, once an established rite, is still practiced in various parts of Cornwall," wrote Thomas Q. Couch about fifty years ago. "With us boils are cured by creeping on the hands and knees [illegible] a bramble which has grown into the soil at both ends. Children [illegible] with [illegible] are still passed [illegible] ash sapling before [illegible] after which the slit portions are [illegible] and as they unite so the malady is cured. The ash is indeed a tree of many virtues. Venomous reptiles are never known to rest under its shadow, and a single blow from an ash stick is instant death to an adder. Struck by a bough of any other tree, the reptile is said to retain marks of life until the sun goes down."

Halley's Comet.

A French scientist declares that Halley's comet was known to the authors of the Talmud long before Halley came into existence. This French scientist quotes from the Talmud: "Two wise men of Palestine, Gambiel and Joshua, made a voyage on the sea. The first had brought with him bread to eat. The second one in addition had brought flour. When Gambiel had eaten all his bread he asked him for flour, saying to him, 'How didst thou know we should be so long on our journey that thou didst bring flour?' To which Joshua did answer: 'There is a very bright star which appeareth every seventy years and which deceiveth mariners. I have thought that perchance it might surprise us during our voyage, lead us astray and thus prolong our voyage on the sea; hence it is that I have provided myself with flour.'"

GOLD LEAF.

Made Now Practically as It Was Made Nine Centuries Ago.

In an article on gold leaf in the Magazine of Commerce John Mastin says that just as the date of the discovery of gold is too remote even to be guessed at so is the origin of gold leaf lost in antiquity.

On some of the most ancient mummies discovered gold leaf has been used on the skin, tongue, teeth, etc., and in some instances on the coffins also. It also appears on tombs, monuments and the like, and, strange to say, though gilding with "thin sheets of hammered gold" and "skins of gold"—otherwise gold leaf—was known to be practiced at least in the eighth century B. C., the process of bringing the gold into these fine sheets or "skins" was, at any rate in the eleventh century A. D., substantially the same as that used today, no advance whatever having been made in the intervening nine centuries.

Further, on some of the Grecian pottery of the fifth century the gold leaf used is as thin as that used today, so that in results obtained also we have not advanced in the least, but still keep practically to the same average thickness as that used on the Egyptian coffins of the third century A. D. and most of the Greek vases of the fifth.

Where It Hurts.

"Say, I have an awful pain. I wonder if it is appendicitis? Can you tell me on what side one gets it?"

"Why, on the inside, of course."—Columbia Jester.

Bad Selection.

"Goodness me, but that woman's makeup is loud."

"It is that. She should have used noiseless powder."—Baltimore American.

up to the present time; the wonderful demonstrations of the wireless telegraph; the electrical and mechanical exhibits indicating the progress of the nation and the agricultural and industrial attractions of the railroads are features that one cannot afford to miss. The Monitor and Merrimac naval battle continues to attract large and delighted audiences, while the theatorium with its moving pictures and vaudeville; the toboggan slide, merry-go-round, Ferris wheel, pony track and many other amusements are there to welcome the visitor, making a trip to the Exposition well worth while.

An excellent restaurant is on the grounds where visitors can obtain meals at reasonable rates. It is of decided advantage to those coming from the country districts as they can get a meal or a lunch without leaving the Exposition.

HE FED THE STAFF.

Fine Dinner For a Hungry Crowd on a Small Capital.

Years ago the late Senator E. W. Carmack was editor of the Nashville Democrat, a paper that had a precarious life and died out on Thanksgiving day.

When the staff came around on Thanksgiving afternoon Carmack met them with the announcement that the paper was dead and that they were all without jobs. This was sadder than it seems now, for the paper had not been paying salaries for some time.

"Boys," said Carmack, "it's all over. The sheet is dead. But we shall not want for a Thanksgiving day dinner. How much money have we?" A search of all pockets showed $4.70.

"Plenty," said Carmack. "Come with me."

They went to the best restaurant and sat down, and Carmack ordered a sumptuous dinner, with turkey and everything complete. After the dinner was over and the diners were smoking the best cigars the house had Carmack called the waiter in his grandest manner and said: "Boy, you have served us admirably. We are more than pleased. Here is a small sum to compensate you for your trouble and as a slight token of our gratification."

"Thank yo', boss," grinned the waiter; "thank yo'. But how about this yere check of $19.70 for that dinner you all just had?"

"Boy," exclaimed Carmack, "what is your status here? Are you a waiter or are you the financial manager of this concern?"

"'Deed, boss, I's only a waiter."

"Well, then," said Carmack, "don't trouble yourself about the financial affairs of the place. Leave that to the manager." And he stalked out, followed by the feasted staff.

But he paid when fortune smiled again.—Cleveland Leader.

Settling the Barber.

"Hair's a bit thin on the top, sir," remarked the barber. "Won't you try a bottle of our hair restorer?"

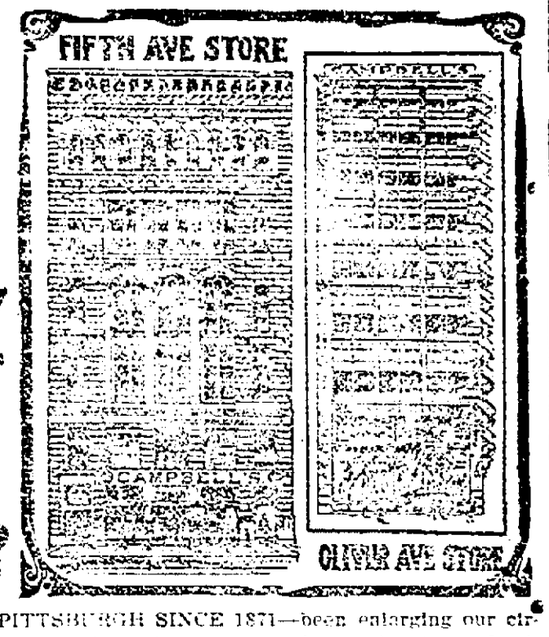

The victim squirmed. "You made the same observation last week," he said, "and I expressed my desire to see you try the stuff on the doormat."

"Sorry; I didn't know you had been here before, sir," replied the barber as he went on shaving. "I didn't recognize your face."

"No," was the growling reply; "my face has healed since then."—London News

GIVES A CHILL TO PRETENDERS

Col. Roosevelt Throws a Hot Shot into "Holier Than Thou" Camp

IS A "STRONG PARTY MAN"

Campaign Places Mr. Tener in Striking Contrast With Other Candidates Who Excites Confidence and Esteem Wherever He Goes.

"I am a strong party man."

With two remarkable speeches at Pittsburg on Saturday night Col. Theodore Roosevelt completed the most wonderful tour ever made by a private citizen. The trip extended from Col. Roosevelt's New York home into the hearts and homes of the extreme west. At every point along the journey at which Col. Roosevelt stopped or could be seen immense crowds gathered to do him honor. Every subject of moment in national affairs was discussed and aired. The rights of the government and the rights of the State; the power of the corporations and the privileges of the individual citizens were set out distinctly and with accepted accuracy, yet in all his speeches covering every subject at issue Col. Roosevelt said not one word of encouragement to the pretenders and sycophants who would favor mob rule in politics or business or who would sacrifice orderly methods that personal advantage might follow. Col. Roosevelt made himself understood, distinctly and emphatically, that he approved the national administration. He approved without reserve the policy of Protection and Prosperity of the Republican party and in every possible way within the bounds of good manners he extended comfort to the regular Republicans who are fighting to sustain President Taft. When Col. Roosevelt shouted out to his Pittsburg admirers who had assembled in a tremendous crowd, "I am a strong party man," he sent a cold chill up and down the spine of every selfish discontent in Pennsylvania and he there and then served notice on the "holier than thou" fellows that they could hope for no support or help from anything he might say or do. Col. Roosevelt beyond question realizes that he is acknowledged as a great force for good in America, but he also realizes that like W. J. Bryan, when the Nebraska whirlwind was in the limelight, a train of pretenders and imitators has been hooked to the tail of his kite in the hope of securing a little personal advantage or political advancement. These pretenders have not received a solitary crumb of comfort from the Roosevelt tour and in dismay they are forced to take to the woods, so to speak, without sufficient covering to hide their sham and deception while the idol of the whole people hisses out at them. "I am a strong party man." That above and beyond all other things is just what the Berrys, the Gibbonies and their whole tribe of place-hunting sycophants did not hope to hear and that as much as any other one factor will guarantee the triumphant election of John K. Tener and his colleagues on the Republican ticket at the approaching general election.

Col. Roosevelt's contention all along the line is for manly men for public places. He seems abundantly willing to fight for honesty of purpose and the sterling qualities which are always able to stand alone. He despises the false prophet and for that reason alone it seems a pity that he is not able to remain in Pennsylvania long enough to compare the actions and attitude of the candidates for Governor in this State. Candidate Berry and his little band of self-appointed office-seekers are holding the boards in the western section of the State. Candidate Grim, representing the result of a conflict between the Democratic bosses of the State is drifting about like a helpless craft afloat. Candidate Berry, pleading personal poverty, wants the people of the State to help him first and in return he promises them great things in the way of help in the future. Candidate Grim is attacking Berry and his methods by charging that the candidate of the Keystone party is insincere and a confirmed place hunter. He is also occasionally saying a mean thing or two about Mr. Tener and Gov. Edwin S. Stuart and at the same time he is assaulting the very departments in the State government which have made the Stuart administration impregnable. In striking contrast with both these candidates is the conduct of Candidate Tener, representing in the contest the unanimous will of the Republicans of the Commonwealth. Strong, clean and wonderfully capable he has been attending Republican meetings in the eastern portion of the State and his reception there has been a fitting sequel to the wonderful reception accorded him at the opening of the campaign in his home town very recently. Upon that occasion Mr. Tener's neighbors broke down all party lines to show their appreciation of his many manly qualities and they sent to the Republicans of the State an assuring message of the esteem in which Mr. Tener is held at his home, where he is best known. At the several meetings in the eastern end of the State Mr. Tener has been dignified and he has won without an apparent effort the confidence of the public, and while the other candidates are berating each other and exposing themselves to contempt and ridicule Mr. Tener is demonstrating his fitness to assume the duties of his predecessor, Edwin S. Stuart, the best Governor Pennsylvania has ever had.

SOUSA AT EXPOSITION WEEK OF SEPT. 19

Music Lovers Anxiously Await His Pittsburg Visit

John Philip Sousa, who is probably better known in more countries than any other bandmaster, will be the musical attraction at the Exposition the week of September 19, appearing with his famous band of 60 players. Mr Sousa is preparing to make another tour of the world, beginning in London, January 2, 1911, and covering the best part of a year. It may therefore be a long time before he will be in Pittsburg again and his coming engagement is sure to attract large crowds, as he is one of the most popular bandmasters who visits this city.

The Sousa programs this year, declares the man who wrote "The Stars and Stripes Forever," are better than ever, and so, too, he adds, is the band. Great interest is being shown by music lovers in the forthcoming first performances of the new Sousa's suite, which will be played here during the coming engagement. This composition has been heard in the east and critics say that it is strikingly original, admirably constructed and that it has some of the best melodies that the great composer has ever written. Sousa can always be depended upon to please as he is not only an expert program builder, but in his voluminous repertoire are compositions of his own which have won him enduring fame in every musical center of the civilized world. Sousa brings with him two new soloists who will be heard here for the first time. They are Virginia Root, soprano, and Nicolene Zedeler, violinist. These young women have already won distinction and are expected to follow the path of their predecessors who were Sousa soloists to widespread prominence. The Exposition continues to delight large crowds with its new and diversified attractions. The return of the archaeological exhibit has proved to be one of the most interesting features. New additions have been made to the display and one lingers long examining the wonderful Indian relics taken from historic Blennerhasset island. Professor Henry Stahl, who spent 47 years collecting this exhibit, delivers little talks every day on the various relics and the visitor learns much of prehistoric times.

GOOD WAY TO USE HYOMEI FOR CATARRH

Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling Hyomei, pronounce it Hi-o-me from a bowl of steaming water each night before retring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.

Try it; it's very simple; give quick relief and makes you breathe easier.

Fill a bowl half full of boiling water; pour into the water a teaspoonful of Hyomei, cover head and bowl with a towel, and breathe through nose and mouth the pleasant, medicated, antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.

This method relieves that stuffiness at once and makes your head feel fine. You can get a bottle of Hyomei at Piper Bros. druggists, everywhere, for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle Hyomei inhalent.

But bear in mind that a Hyomei outfit which includes inhaler and bottle of Hyomei costs $1.00.

Hyomei is guranteed by Piper Bros. and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, asthma and croup or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

HER GREETING.

In Spite of the Old Lady's Care She Managed to Blunder.

The daughters of a certain charming old lady in Washington are frequently much upset by the odd social blunders of their parent, whose failings in this respect are, however, more than offset by her kindliness of manner.

Among the callers to the house of this family was a Mrs. Farrell, who, after some years of widowhood, again married, this time becoming the wife of a Mr. Meggs.

"If you love us, mother," said one of the girls when the newly married lady's card had been brought in one afternoon shortly after the completion of the honeymoon, "don't make the mistake of calling her Mrs. Farrell."

The mother solemnly promised to commit no faux pas and as she went downstairs was heard to repeat to herself, "Meggs—Meggs—Meggs—not Farrell."

At the conclusion of the call the old lady was met at the head of the stairs by the daughter, who at once observed an ominous expression of despondency on the old lady's face.

"Oh, mother," she exclaimed, "surely you didn't"—

"No, Clara," replied the mother emphatically, "I didn't. I was so careful to call her Mrs. Meggs all the time."

"Well, what's the trouble, then?"

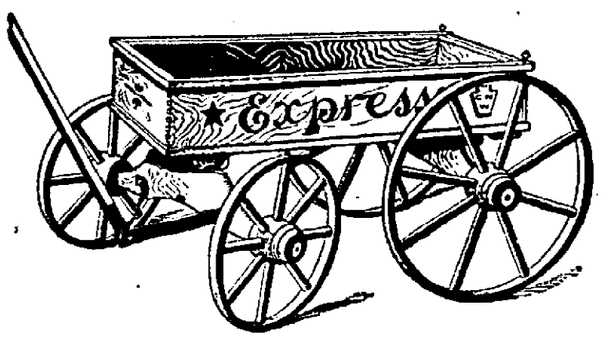

"Oh, dear!" murmured the kindly old lady, as she sank into a chair. "It was awful of me I know! When I greeted her I said: 'I am glad to see you, Mrs. Meggs. How is Mr. Farrell?'"—Harper's Weekly.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

THE CHARLEROI MAIL

Entered second-class mail at Charleroi, June 15, 1[illegible] under act of Congress of March 3, 1879

VOL. XI. NO. 30. CHARLEROI, WASHINGTON CO., PA., TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 13, 1910. One Cent

MAN STABBED WITH PICK HAS CHANCE TO RECOVER

Joe Varga Taken to Memorial Hospital This Morning.

INQUEST THIS EVENING

Coroner to Investigate Into the Death of Hungarian Who Was Killed.

With a chance for recovery Joe Vargo, the man who was struck in the back with a pick and it was though mortally wounded in a fight among Hungarians miners at Pricedale Saturday night, was rushed to the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela this morning. The pick entered his back between the shoulder blades and it is feared penetrated the right lung. This may cause complications.

As yet it is stated no more arrests have been made in connection with the affair, although the police of Pricedale and Belle Vernon are searching for the six men at large. John Sohanos and Andrew Ronack are being held. Joe Boldog who was shot in the right leg is getting along well.

If it possible to locate the witnesses Coroner James T. Heffran of this county will hold an inquest at the undertaking rooms of Correll and Crowley this evening to inquire into the death of William Smith who was shot and killed at the same time the other two were injured.

CONTRACT IS AWARDED FOR RESURFACING ROAD

Donora Construction Company Gets the Job of Repairing Highway in Fallowfield Township.

The road supervisors of Fallowfield township yesterday awarded the contract for resurfacing 6,000 feet of the Sprowls road leading to Charleroi borough, paving 400 feet, and constructing a concrete beam bridge across Maple Creek, to the Donora Construction company. There were three bidders, the Donora Construction company, Hastings and Piper of Charleroi and Glenn company of Washington.

The 6,000 feet of road is to be macadamized at a width of 16 feet. The 400 feet of brick road is to be that part immediately connecting with the Charleroi borough line. The bridge is to be a 25 foot iron span with concrete abutments.

The supervisors are Henry Carson Jehu Cooper and William Jones, and the engineer is Theo. J. Allen of Charleroi.

MURDER IS THE RESULT

Miner Injured at Braznell Mines Dies at Hospital.

WILL HOLD INQUEST TODAY

An inquest is to be held today at Monongahela over the body of Jack Snaroff who was shot in a fracas at the Braznell mines near Bentleyville Sunday night. He died at the Memorial Hospital at Monongahela yesterday after suffering for about 24 hours. George Mangun, a Croatian, who is alleged to have done the shooting, has so far escaped arrest. County Detective McCleary is on the trail of the man who is alleged to have used the gun.

ENGINEER DROWNED

Boatman Falls Into River While Oiling Big Wheel

Harry Chapman of McKeesport, second engineer of the towboat Clipper of the River Coal company, was drowned yesterday at Monongahela, when he fell from the boat. It is supposed the man was oiling the paddle wheel of the boat when he fell into the river. No help was near and he was unable to save himself. The body was recovered a short while later. He leaves a widow and three children.

RAILWAYS COMPANY SUED AS RESULT OF ACCIDENT

George Matheny Claims Damages for Trespass.

ALL PATIENTS DISCHARGED

Injured Ones Return to Their Various Homes, But Are Not Well.

Arising, it is said, from an accident at Beechwood Park crossing near Speers, when his daughter, Miss Blanche Matheny was injured, George Matheny of McKeesport has entered suit in the Washington county courts against the Pittsburg Railways company, claiming damages in her behalf under the technical head of trespass. No particulars are filed. At the same time Miss Matheny was injured, W. H. Hamilton and son Roy of Roscoe were killed, Mrs. Hamilton, Miss Anna Hamilton, Mary Hamilton and Robert Hamilton were injured.

The affair is well remembered. The Hamiltons and Miss Matheny, their guest, were coming from Roesoe in an auto and at the crossing were run into by a trolley car

Miss Matheny was discharged from the Monessen-Charleroi hospital about August 18, and Mrs. Hamilton and the other members of the family a day or so later. None are fully recovered, except possibly the younger Hamilton children. Mrs. Hamilton will be compelled to use crutches for some time to come and Miss Anna Hamilton it is feared has entirely lost the sight of one eye. Miss Mathen is in a rather weakened condition.

Raises Big Fruit in New Orchard

V. D. Shannon Gleans Rich Crop From Trees on Walnut Ridge.

V. D. Shannon of Fallowfield township this morning dropped in the Mail office long enough to leave a good sized basket full of fruit of the finest grade, it has been the pleasure of "ye editors" to see for a long time. The fruit consisted of Ohio Nonpareil and Winter apples, and Russet pears. The apples were the size of two or three ordinary ones, and the pears were also large The flavor corresponded. The fruit was grown on Mr. Shannon's farm on Walnut Ridge and is taken from a young orchard, just coming into bearing.

ATHLETIC TRAINING AT THE TURNER CLUB

Physical Development Taught Members and Others by Competent Instructors.

The Charleroi Gymnastic Society is organized for the purpose of bringing up healthy men and women, strong in body, mind and morals, which is conducive to good citizenship. It has been recognized that without a good physical development we cannot be strong in mind. Our German system of physical training which is now introduced in almost every public school, high school, college and university in America, is recognized the world over as perfect in all its branches and the best in giving children and adults of both sex a proper physical development. The aim of physical trainings is to increase the strength and the power of endurance of the body, that it may become an efficient tool of the intelligence. In general, physical training gives to the boy that beauty which consists of nobler bearing and grace of movement. By means of gymnasties a spiritual freshness, resolution, discretion and courage are aroused and maintained. The pupils become accustomed to strict attention, self-control, instant obedience and cheerful subordination of themselves to the interest of the whole.

Endorsing Democrats

Well authenticated reports are to the effect that the Keystone party of the Twenty fourth Congressional district will endorse J. Henry Wilson of Beaver county, the Democratic candidate for Congress. That being the case, Mr. Wilson's name will probably appear on the Keystone ticket in the three counties of the district—Washington, Beaver and Lawrence. Up to date the Keystone party has endorsed eight Democratic candidates for Congress in the State, showing that their purpose is to fight the Republican party Nationally, as well as in the State

While the Democratic party will no doubt weclome this coalition which is designed to draw Republican votes under the guise of reform in State politics, how about the national policies, on which Republicans and Democrats differ radically? As a Democrat Mr. Wilson will oppose the tariff duties that are so essential to the prosperity of Pennsylvania's industries. He will vote against the wool schedules, in the interest of which the wool growers of the Washington county sent a committee to Congress to protest against any reduction. Mr. Wilson as a Democrat will vote to install the passive policy for American industries—that is, letting them develop without any artifical effort or stimulation, in the same manner as a town tries to grow where the people sit back and let things take their course. This is what the Keystone party advocates in opposition to the active policy of promoting big developments as fostered by the Republican party.

It is up to the people of Washington county to judge which they prefer—a continuation of industrial developments as they are, or a relapse that will come when world-wide competition removes the barriers that have developed the resource of this country and made it the most prosperous nation on earth. By its action the Keystone party is showing that it is a party of destruction as well as obstruction.

The Maine Election

Although not altogether unexpected by astute politicians who have kept close tab on the situation, the sweeping Democratic victory in Maine yesterday was a surprise to the rank and file of Republicans who took for granted that the Pine Tree State would be true to her traditions By their victory yesterday the Democrats elect the Governor and three Congressman, with the fourth in doubt. It is also possible that they may have elected enough Assemblymen and Senators to give them control of the Legislature, in which case they can elect a successor to Sentor Hale and repeal the Prohibitory act, which has long been an issue in the politics of that State.

With a gain of three Congressmen from the rock-ribbbed Republican State of Maine, the claim of the Democrats that they will control the next House of Congress is in a fair way to be realized While no radical changes in legislation could be effected with a Republican Senate and President, the confusion resulting from such a change would be determental to business interests. In all probability tariff discussion would be revived, and this would halt developments, drive capital into retirement, and cut down consumption and production, just as it has always done. The Maine election will have the effect at least of causing renewed activity on the part of the Republicans, and the indications are that the result will be much the same as in the Garfield campaign, the last time that Maine elected a Democratic Governor.

ELECTRIC SPARKS

While it might be true that Charleroi is a mighty popular place to [illegible] celebration, it is also true that Charleroi people are the most willing in the world to help out elsewhere. We are now ready to reciprocate [illegible] any of our neighbors

According to a prominent New [illegible] any person can become great who has the stuff in him. The trouble is to find the stuff.

Foolish Question

"Our youngest child talks all the time "

"Boy or girl?"

"Didn't I say it talked all the time?"

Theodore Roosevelt said he was glad to be enabled to visit Pittsburg He said the same thing at Milwaukee and the rest of the places he visited on his late tour.

If it is true that the good all die young, some fellows must be terrible sinners.

An exchange in speaking of Mr. Bryan asks if a man is going to throw away a chance of being President for one to go to the Senate. What chance?

In Charleroi they only look askance at the man who dares try to pull off an original joke. In Pricedale they shoot him on the spot.

Isn't the Monongahela valley getting to be the real wild and wooly place, though?

Over in Belle Vernon an apple tree insists upon bearing fruit two or three times a year. If the trees are going to act like that, what's the use of having seasons at all?

The perple, some of them, are actually taking the "Sparks" column seriously. Such is a base insult, so there.

The woman who wears hobble skirts might encounter more trouble than she anticipates when she purchases the thing. She might want to leap from a flaming building into her hero's arms, yet be unable to do it gracefully.

ATHLETIC TRAINING AT THE TURNER CLUB

It is in this age where physical exercise gives the promation of growth through the stimulation of breathing and of circulation, especially of blood formation which is sadly hindered by the forced durance in school. It is very important in the development of a good bearing and carriage of the body so as to prevent deformities, spinal curature which is common amongst children from faulty sitting, postions which can only be prevented and cured by means of physical exercise.

Junior classes, 14 to 18 years. This is the period in the life of every boy and girl where great care should be taken in attaining and developing the mind and body It is the period of developing above all, a strong heart and lungs, also the trainng for dexterity and pleasure in active sport.

Ladies' class, 15 years and over. We believe [illegible] the family and the home are better subserved by a participation of the weaker sex in these exercises which are so beneficial to the stronger. Women need the benefit derived from rational exercises as well as men to a certain extent Physical training has become a necessity to them The physical exercises for the weaker sex are somewhat different from those of the stronger, more care being give to develop grace, beauty, correct carriage of the body and agility than to muscular strength.

Active class, men 18 to 30 years. It is in this class where [illegible] training finds its crowning glory and [illegible] the system demonstrates what [illegible] has been accomplished by it Great stress is laid upon exercises [illegible] skill, quickness and tasks for endurance.

Business men's class 30 to 40 years and over. In this period of life a [illegible] more care is taken to avoid any [illegible] strain not to overtax the breathing power of the individual, an error so common and very harmful especially [illegible], where athletes are [illegible] The adopted exercises given to [illegible] age, are to maintain strength and health [illegible] the internal organs and serving at the same time to consume surplus fat.

Class Sessions [illegible]—The gymnasium is large and well equipped and the classes are in charge of Ernest T. Schliep a graduate of the N. A. G. U. Normal college at Indianapolis, Ind, class '03. Mr. Schliep is an expert gymnast and athlete of wide experience The physical exercises given are to physiological and anatomical value and therefore the classes are divided according to age and sex as follows:

Boys class, 6 to 14—Wednesday, 4 to 5 p. m. Saturday, 9 to 10:30 a. m.

Girls class, 6 to 14—Wednesday, 5 to 6 p. m. Saturday, 10:30 to 12 a. m

Ladies class, 15 years and over—Wednesday, 7 to 8 30 p. m.

Mens class, Actives—Wednesday, 8:30 to 10 p. m.

The instruction of the gymnasium classes began Wednesday. September 7, 1910. You are cordially invited to "drop in" any afternoon or evening during class hour and see how the classes are conducted The class work consists of marching tactics, calisthenics without and with hand apparatus, gymnastic apparatus, work on flying rings, vaulting back, vaulting horse, horizontal bar, parallel bar and class games.

The instructions are given in English and German language.

The Charleroi Gymnastic Society is not organized only for the benefit of the members and their children to get a thorough physical development, but also for the benefit of every child and adult in the community being a nonmember of the society for the sake of his health and physical welfare. Our gymnasium is open to any one who may be interested in physical training, and we would be pleased to have you or your children to join our gymnasium classes. Tuition for gymnasium school: Non-members—Child or adult 25 cents per month. Members of the society are free.

Frog Farming In France

Among the advantages of frog farming in France is the fact that it enables persons of limited means to utilize marshes and ponds which are too shallow and warm for fish culture and practically useless for any other purpose and produce on a comparatively small area a large amount of valuable food material for which there is always an eager market.

Where Women May Not Pray.

In some parts of the world the women are not even allowed to pray Certain Hindoo congregations deny their women this privilege, and among the Ainus women can pray only in very rare cases as the deputies of their husbands The natives of Madagascar, however, stretch a point and permit their women to intercede with the powers of evil, but prayer to their supreme being is strictly a masculine prerogative.

TRICKY ART DEALERS.

Astute Parisian Scheme For Booming a "New Master."

For the booming of a new artist an astute dealer is necesary He catches his artist as young as possible, preferably as an exhibitor of crazy canvases at the autumn salon of the independents' exhibition, and commissions him to paint 100 pictures a year

One by one, occasionally in twos and threes, at judicious intervals the dealer sends the pictures to the Hotel Drouot for sale by public auction There he has confederates, who raise the price at each sale, and he buys them in himself

After a few months the young artist's canvases have a certain market value, and the next step is taken to turn their painter into a modern master The critics are attacked One of them is asked to look at some daub and when he cries out with horror the dealer says

"What? You don't like it? Take it home with you as a favor to me, live with it six months and then'—

In due course an art amateur calls upon the critic and cannot contain his admiration for the new artist's picture

"What a masterpiece! The most modern thing in art I have seen for a long time'" he exclaims Doubt begins to invade the critic's mind, and when one or two more enthusiastic amateurs have visited him he is worked up to writing a column of panegyric on the new master. The amateurs are, of course, sent by the dealer.

One or two articles and the boom is in full swing Wealthy and simple minded collectors, remembering how other painters have been decried in their early days and how their works later have commanded fancy prices rush in

The new master makes about 10 per cent of the profit and the dealer the other 90 per cent The new master is at the mercy of the dealer If he [illegible] the dealer floods the auction rooms with a hundred or so of his masterpieces and orders his agents not to bid, the result being that the canvases sell at rubbish prices, and the boom is burst —Gil Blas

LONDON THEATERS.

They Charge From a Penny to Sixpence For a Bill of the Play.

[illegible] theaters when the [illegible] seat she [illegible] If you [illegible] orchestra [illegible] The [illegible] galleries as [illegible] to a penny in the cockloft The quality of paper and the general artistic merit of the program decline with the price but exactly the same information is conveyed for a penny as for sixpence The fastidious theater goer might prefer to pay a dime for a neat and simple program rather than to have a bulky bunch of advertisements gratis as in New York, but these London programs, although not so thick as those of New York are not devoid of advertisements This gives the purchaser the feeling that be is being worked at both ends A lady reminds me, however, that a program in a New York theater costs her 10 cents, as the smeary printing rubs off on her white gloves, the cleaning of which costs a dime.

The quality of the performance at the better London theaters certainly averages no higher than that at similar theaters in New York The music halls are the resort of the great middle class. These are great auditoriums with tier on tier of galleries, the seating capacity ranging perhaps from 3,000 to 5,000 —London Letter in New York Sun.

The Roman Tribune.

The tribunes in ancient Rome represented the people in much the same way that the house of commons does in England and the house of representatives in this country. For a long time the patricians or aristocrats of Rome had everything their own way. But when the plebeians (or, as we would say, the "plain people") got their tribune the reckless tyranny of the patricians ceased The tribune had great power He could veto almost any act and nullify almost any law passed by the Romans Liberty among the Romans dates from the time they first secured their tribunes.—New York American

Played Them Both Ways.

The French comedian Perlet was extraordinarily thin A physician recommended him to try some bath in the Pyrenees, so he betook himself to the mineral springs, where he bathed unremittingly, but all in vain, he did not increase in size "Patience,' urged the doctor "There is nothing like our baths for making people fat" One day while Perlet was waiting philosophically in his bath for an embonpoint which never came he heard a conversation in the next room, from which his own was divided by only a thin partition and which was occupied by an enormous woman, fat as the Hottentot Venus "Doctor," said she "I am getting tired of this" "Why?" asked the Aesculapius "I have been here two months" "Well?" "Well I am as enormous as I was when I came" "A little patience, madame" urged the doctor "There is nothing like our baths for making people thin" Perlet, hearing these words sprang out of his bath, dressed rushed home to his hotel, ordered his bill and left for Paris by the next train —Argonaut

A Simple Life.

"And what, inquired the visitor, who was "being nice" to little Bobbie, 'are you going to do when you grow up?"

'Be a business man," responded Robert, "like father. He took me down to his office last week, and I'm going to work like him and have a good time

"And what are you going to do in business?" pursued the visitor.

"Going to do just like dad," repeated the youngster—"catch the train every morning and when I get to the city light a big cigar and sit down at my desk and say there's so much work to do it's no use beginning till after lunch and then go out with another big man and eat and eat till I can't eat any more and then go back to business and ask everybody else was the work aint done and then get so mad because nobody does anything that I'll go home early cause I'm so tired I can't do [illegible] the paper and smoke [illegible] and swear."—[illegible]

A Locomotive's Breathing.

The "breathing' of a locomotive—that is to say the number of puffs given during a journey—depends upon the circumstances of its driving wheels and their speed. No matter what the rate of speed may be, for every one round of the driving wheels a locomotive will give four puffs—two out of each cylinder, the cylinders being double If the average circumference of the driving wheel is twenty feet and the speed per hour fifty miles, a locomotive will give, going at express speed, 850 puffs per minute, 52,800 puffs per hour and 1,056 puffs per mile—London Standard.

Original of Falstaff.

Sir John Fastolf was the original of Shakespeare's Falstaff and in his day was a continual butt for the jests of the town and borough of Southwark Though he had fought at Agincourt, when Jack Cade invaded the borough, he showed great cowardice. When Cade was yet some way off Fastolf had armed and fortified his house and garrisoned it with veterans of the French wars On the arrival of Cade, however, he withdrew his garrison and fled to the Tower, leaving his neighbors to the mercy of the rebels Fastolf's matrimonial adventures seem also to have been another source of unpopularity, for, having married a widow named Scrope, he seized her property and kept his stepson out of his inheritance during his own lifetime.—London News

"Great Expectations."

Charles Green, one of Dickens' illustrators, had two models, one of whom was a likable fellow, while the other, Gregory by name, was a greedy, self seeking character, always thinking of himself and his perquisites

When Green was on his deathbed Gregory was very officious, and one day Green, noticing this, said to him

"Oh, I haven't forgotten you, Gregory; got you down in my will"

At the funeral Gregory invested in a wreath and duly attended to hear the will read.

Green had kept his word, and the model was not forgotten.

"To my dear friend Gregory," ran the document, "I leave, for his kindness to me, an illustrated edition of 'Great Expectations'"

The Professional View.

An English physician of whom many stories are in circulation may not be as unsympathetic as a recent anecdote seems to make him He is a specialist on all sorts of mental disturbances and the fits spasms and convulsions which sometimes accompany them One of his patients a most excitable person if suddenly alarmed or distressed, would fall into a curious comatose state from which she could not be roused until the effect of the shock had passed The physician had been summoned again and again, but it always happened that he was away from home at the time, and before he arrived on the scene of action the patient had recovered At last one night he was summoned and arrived at the house while the woman was still unconscious. He hurried upstairs and into the room where she was lying on the couch. He looked at her, and an expression of interest overspread his face.

"Now, this" he said in his most cheerful tone—"this is something like!"

Whistler's Ways.

It was Whistler's custom when [illegible] sleep no matter where or what the circumstances might be. At one dinner party his gentle snore suddenly aroused his neighbor, who nudged him violently with his elbow "I say Whistler," he protested excitedly, "you must not sleep here!'

"Leave me alone'" snapped Whistler "I've [illegible] all I wanted to I've no interest at all in what you and your friends have to say"

One evening he was my guest at dinner at a hotel Edwin A. Abbey was also there Right after dinner Whistler went calmly to sleep On the way to the theater he enjoyed another nap in the cab, and he slumbered peacefully through the greater part of the play The next morning he blandly asked me 'What did Abbey have to say last night? Anything worth while?"—Century.

Halley's Comet.

A French scientist declares that Halley's comet was known to the authors of the Talmud long before Halley came into existence This French scientist quotes from the Talmud "Two wise men of Palestine Gambiel and Joshua made a voyage on the sea. The first had brought with him bread to eat. The second one in addition had brought flour When Gambiel had eaten all his bread he asked him for flour, saying to him, 'How didst thou know we should be so long on our journey that thou didst bring flour?' To which Joshua did answer 'There is a very bright star which appeareth every seventy years and which deceiveth mariners. I have thought that perchance it might surprise us during our voyage, lead us astray and thus prolong our voyage on the sea: hence it is that I have provided myself with flour.'"

GOLD LEAF.

Made Now Practically as It Was Made Nine Centuries Ago.

In an article on gold leaf in the Magazine of Commerce John Mastin says that just as the date of the discovery of gold is too remote even to be guessed at so is the origin of gold leaf lost in antiquity

On some of the most ancient mummies discovered gold leaf has been used on the skin, tongue, teeth, etc., and in some instances on the coffins also It also appears on tombs, monuments and the like, and strange to say, though gilding with "thin sheets of hammered gold" and "skins of gold"—otherwise gold leaf—was known to be practiced at least in the eighth century B. C, the process of bringing the gold into these fine sheets or "skins" was, at any rate in the eleventh century A D, substantially the same as that used today, no advance whatever having been made in the intervening nine centuries

Further, on some of the Grecian pottery of the fifth century the gold leaf used is as thin as that used today, so that in results obtained also we have not advanced in the least, but still keep practically to the same average thickness as that used on the Egyptian coffins of the third century A. D. and most of the Greek vases of the fifth.

Where It Hurts.

up to the present time; the wonderful demonstrations of the wireless telegraph; the electrical and mechanical exhibits indicating the progress of the nation and the agricultural and industrial attractions of the railroads are features that one cannot afford to miss. The Monitor and Merrimac naval battle continues to attract large and delighted audiences, while the theatorium with its moving pictures and vaudeville; the toboggan slide, merry-go-round, Ferris wheel, pony track and many other amusements are there to welcome the visitor, making a trip to the Exposition well worth while.

An excellent restaurant is on the grounds where visitors can obtain meals at reasonable rates. It is of decided advantage to those coming from the country districts as they can get a meal or a lunch without leaving the Exposition.

HE FED THE STAFF.

Fine Dinner For a Hungry Crowd on a Small Capital.

Years ago the late Senator E. W. Carmack was editor of the Nashville Democrat, a paper that led a precarious life and finished out on Thanksgiving day.

When the staff came around on Thanksgiving afternoon Carmack met them with the announcement that the paper was dead and that they were all without jobs. This was sadder than it seems now, for the paper had not been paying salaries for some time.

"Boys," said Carmack, "it's all over. The sheet is dead. But we shall not want for a Thanksgiving day dinner. How much money have we?" A search of all pockets showed $4.70.

"Plenty," said Carmack. "Come with me."

They went to the best restaurant and sat down, and Carmack ordered a sumptuous dinner, with turkey and everything complete. After the dinner was over and the diners were smoking the best cigars the house had Carmack called the waiter in his grandest manner and said: "Boy, you have served us admirably. We are more than pleased. Here is a small sum to compensate you for your trouble and as a slight token of our gratification."

"Thank yo', boss," grinned the waiter; "thank yo'. But how about this yere check of $19.70 for that dinner you all just had?"

"Boy," exclaimed Carmack, "what is your status here? Are you a waiter or are you the financial manager of this concern?"

"'Deed, boss, I's only a waiter."

"Well, then," said Carmack, "don't trouble yourself about the financial affairs of the place. Leave that to the manager." And he stalked out, followed by the feasted staff.

But he paid when fortune smiled again.—Cleveland Leader.

Settling the Barber.

"Hair's a bit thin on the top, sir," remarked the barber. "Won't you try a bottle of our hair restorer?"

The victim squirmed. "You made the same observation last week," he said, "and I expressed my desire to see you try the stuff on the doormat."

"Sorry; I didn't know you had been here before, sir," replied the barber as he went on shaving. "I didn't recognize your face."

"No," was the growling reply; "my face has healed since then."—London News

...ol. Roosevelt Throws a Hot Shot into "Holier Than Thou" Camp

...S A "STRONG PARTY MAN"

...ampaign Places Mr. Tener in Strik...ing Contrast With Other Candidates Who Excites Confidence and Esteem Wherever He Goes.

"I am a strong party man."

With two remarkable speeches at ...ittsburg on Saturday night Col. ...heodore Roosevelt completed the ...ost wonderful tour ever made by a ...rivate citizen. The trip extended ...om Col. Roosevelt's New York home ...nto the hearts and homes of the ex...reme west. At every point along the ...ourney at which Col. Roosevelt ...topped or could be seen immense ...rowds gathered to do him honor. ...very subject of moment in national ...fairs was discussed and aired. The ...ghts of the government and the ...ghts of the State; the power of the ...orporations and the privileges of the ...ndividual citizens were set out distinctly and with accepted accuracy, ...et in all his speeches covering every ...bject at issue Col. Roosevelt said ...ot one word of encouragement to the ...retenders and sycophants who would ...vor mob rule in politics or business ... who would sacrifice orderly ...ethods that personal advantage ...ight follow. Col. Roosevelt made ...mself understood, distinctly and em...atically, that he approved the na...onal administration. He approved ...ithout reserve the policy of Protec...on and Prosperity of the Republican ...rty and in every possible way with ... the bounds of good manners he ex...nded comfort to the regular Repub...cans who are fighting to sustain ...esident Taft. When Col. Roosevelt ...outed out to his Pittsburg admirers ...ho had assembled in a tremendous ...owd, "I am a strong party man," he ...nt a cold chill up and down the ...ine of every selfish discontent in ...nnsylvania and he there and then ...rved notice on the "holier than ...ou" fellows that they could hope for ... support or help from anything he ...ight say or do. Col. Roosevelt be...nd question realizes that he is ac...owledged as a great force for good ... America, but he also realizes that ...e W. J. Bryan, when the Nebraska ...irlwind was in the limelight, a ...in of pretenders and imitators has ...en hooked to the tail of his kite in ... hope of securing a little personal advantage or political advancement. These pretenders have not received a solitary crumb of comfort from the Roosevelt tour and in dismay they are forced to take to the woods, so to speak, without sufficient covering to hide their sham and deception while the idol of the whole people hisses out at them. "I am a strong party man." That above and beyond all other things is just what the Berrys, the Gibbonies and their whole tribe of place-hunting sycophants did not hope to hear and that as much as any other one factor will guarantee the triumphant election of John K. Tener and his colleagues on the Republican ticket at the approaching general election.

Col. Roosevelt's contention all along the line is for manly men for public places. He seems abundantly willing to fight for honesty of purpose and the sterling qualities which are always able to stand alone. He despises the false prophet and for that reason alone it seems a pity that he is not able to remain in Pennsylvania long enough to compare the actions and attitude of the candidates for Governor in this State. Candidate Berry and his little band of self-appointed office-seekers are holding the boards in the western section of the State. Candidate Grim, representing the result of a conflict between the Democratic bosses of the State is drifting about like a helpless craft afloat. Candidate Berry, pleading personal poverty, wants the people of the State to help him first and in return he promises them great things in the way of help in the future. Candidate Grim is attacking Berry and his methods by charging that the candidate of the Keystone party is insincere and a confirmed place hunter. He is also occasionally saying a mean thing or two about Mr. Tener and Gov. Edwin S. Stuart and at the same time he is assaulting the very departments in the State government which have made the Stuart administration impregnable. In striking contrast with both these candidates is the conduct of Candidate Tener, representing in the contest the unanimous will of the Republicans of the Commonwealth. Strong, clean and wonderfully capable he has been attending Republican meetings in the eastern portion of the State and his reception there has been a fitting sequel to the wonderful reception accorded him at the opening of the campaign in his home town very recently. Upon that occasion Mr. Tener's neighbors broke down all party lines to show their appreciation of his many manly qualities and they sent to the Republicans of the State an assuring message of the esteem in which Mr. Tener is held at his home, where he is best known. At the several meetings in the eastern end of the State Mr. Tener has been dignified and he has won without an apparent effort the confidence of the public, and while the other candidates are berating each other and exposing themselves to contempt and ridicule Mr. Tener is demonstrating his fitness to assume the duties of his predecessor, Edwin S. Stuart, the best Governor Pennsylvania has ever had.

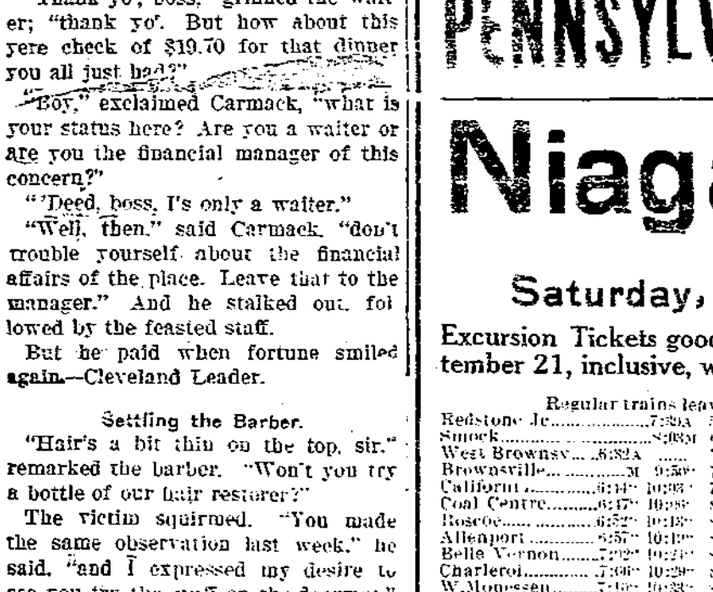

SOUSA AT EXPOSITION WEEK OF SEPT. 19

Music Lovers Anxiously Await His Pittsburg Visit

John Philip Sousa, who is probably better known in more countries than any other bandmaster, will be the musical attraction at the Exposition the week of September 19, appearing with his famous band of 60 players. Mr Sousa is preparing to make another tour of the world, beginning in London, January 2, 1911, and covering the best part of a year. It may therefore be a long time before he will be in Pittsburg again and his coming engagement is sure to attract large crowds, as he is one of the most popular bandmasters who visits this city.

The Sousa programs this year, declares the man who wrote "The Stars and Stripes Forever," are better than ever, and so, too, he adds, is the band. Great interest is being shown by music lovers in the forthcoming first performances of the new Sousa's suite, which will be played here during the coming engagement. This composition has been heard in the east and critics say that it is strikingly original, admirably constructed and that it has some of the best melodies that the great composer has ever written. Sousa can always be depended upon to please as he is not only an expert program builder, but in his voluminous repertoire are compositions of his own which have won him enduring fame in every musical center of the civilized world. Sousa brings with him two new soloists who will be heard here for the first time. They are Virginia Root, soprano, and Nicolene Zedeler, violinist. These young women have already won distinction and are expected to follow the path of their predecessors who were Sousa soloists to widespread prominence. The Exposition continues to delight large crowds with its new and diversified attractions. The return of the archaelogical exhibit has proved to be one of the most interesting features. New additions have been made to the display and one lingers long examining the wonderful Indian relics taken from historic Blennerhasset island. Professor Henry Stahl, who spent 47 years collecting this exhibit, delivers little talks every day on the various relics and the visitor learns much of prehistoric times.

GOOD WAY TO USE HYOMEI FOR CATARRH

Besides breathing through the inhaler a few times a day, many catarrh sufferers write that they find inhaling Hyomei, pronounce it Hi-o-me from a bowl of steaming water each night before retring a great aid in curing stubborn cases.

Try it; it's very simple; give quick relief and makes you breathe easier.

Fill a bowl half full of boiling water: pour into the water a teaspoonful of Hyomei," cover head and bowl with a towel, and breathe through nose and mouth the pleasant, medicated, antiseptic and healing vapor that arises.

This method relieves that stuffiness at once and makes your head feel fine. You can get a bottle of Hyomei at Piper Bros. druggists, everywhere, for only 50 cents. Ask for extra bottle Hyomei inhalent.

But bear in mind that a Hyomei outfit which includes inhaler and bottle of Hyomei costs $1.00.

Hyomei is guranteed by Piper Bros. and druggists everywhere to cure catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, asthma and croup or money back. Try it on that generous basis.

HER GREETING.

In Spite of the Old Lady's Care She Managed to Blunder.

The daughters of a certain charming old lady in Washington are frequently much upset by the odd social blunders of their parent, whose failings in this respect are, however, more than offset by her kindliness of manner.

Among the callers to the house of this family was a Mrs. Farrell, who, after some years of widowhood, again married, this time becoming the wife of a Mr. Meggs.

"If you love us, mother," said one of the girls when the newly married lady's card had been brought in one afternoon shortly after the completion of the honeymoon, "don't make the mistake of calling her Mrs. Farrell."

The mother solemnly promised to commit no faux pas and as she went downstairs was heard to repeat to herself, "Meggs—Meggs—Meggs—not Farrell."

At the conclusion of the call the old lady was met at the head of the stairs by the daughter, who at once observed an ominous expression of despondency on the old lady's face.

"Oh, mother," she exclaimed, "surely you didn't"—

"No, Clara," replied the mother emphatically, "I didn't. I was so careful to call her Mrs. Meggs all the time."

"Well, what's the trouble, then?"

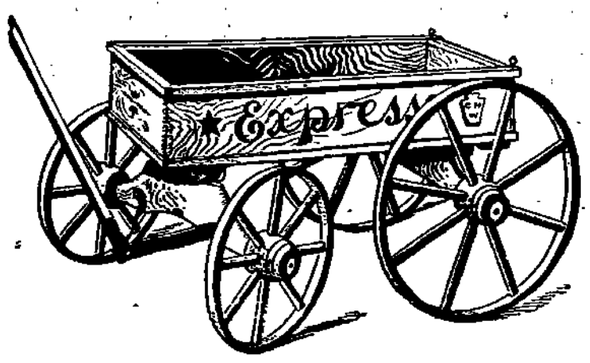

"Oh, dear!" murmured the kindly old lady, as she sank into a chair. "It was awful of me I know! When I greeted her I said: 'I am glad to see you, Mrs. Meggs. How is Mr. Farrell?'"—Harper's Weekly.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
